

Headteacher's Message

The sun has shone this week and the mood has felt so bright and positive in school. We started the week by talking about neurodiversity, and I was so proud when a few of our children put up their hands and talked about difficulties they were facing and what they wanted us to know about them. It just goes to show how far we have come with diversity in our school and I couldn't be more proud of them. Funky Friday showed just how diverse they were—the play list varied from songs from Encanto, Hey Mickey by Toni Basil and then ended with a little Belinda Carlisle!

Next week we have a jam packed week, with our plastics workshops taking place on Tuesday for all classes, a rugby festival for some of the children in Cowloe, swimming and a special trip to Trewidden Gardens for Brisons class. We will send more information out about the 2 trips early next week.

We are hoping to begin a whole school project early on in the summer term. This will be inspired by our workshops on plastics pollution on 29th March. It will involve different aspects of creativity and we are hoping to produce some long lasting pieces that we can display around the school. In preparation for this project, could you please start collecting plastic bottle tops (any kind and colour). There will be a collection tub in the entrance hall for them. We will let you know more about the project once the workshops have take place.

Recommended Read

On the back of our work on Neurodiversity week, I have chosen this book. This story will strike a chord with many who struggle with reading a writing and goes to prove that story and creativity goes way beyond words. I plan to read it on Monday in assembly. The blurb on the back says:

Aaron Slater loves listening to stories and dreams of one day writing them himself. But when it comes to reading, the letters just look like squiggles to him, and it soon becomes clear he struggles more than his peers.

When his teacher asks each child in the class to write a story, Aaron can't get a single word down. He is sure his dream of being a storyteller is out of reach . . . until inspiration strikes, and Aaron finds a way to spin a tale in a way that is uniquely his.

Easter trail

Our wonderful new FOSS team have been working hard to create an amazing Easter trail to raise some much needed funds for the school playground. The children have been busily painting the eggs ready to use and it is set to be a great event. Please promote this as much as possible, it is open to all, not just our school children.

Children will be asked what they would like each day by their teacher. Children in year R—2 get infant free school meals and it is £2.34 for the rest of the school, other than for those pupils who have been awarded income based free school meals.
